Lost in Knowledge syntheses? A roadmap with decision aid and resources

MARCH 20th, 15:00-16:00

Cannot be present in person but would like to attend? Join via webinar here

Pierre Pluye, MD, PhD; Reem ElSherif, PhD(c), MSc. MBBCh; Peter Nugus, MAHons, MEd, PhD;
Tibor Schuster, PhD; Isabelle Vedel, Md, PhD

This seminar is about a roadmap to help clinicians, managers, graduate students and researchers to choose the appropriate path for synthesizing knowledge in family medicine education, quality improvement and research (including literature reviews), and accessing appropriate method reference. Based on 10-years experience teaching reviews in the department, co-presenters will propose and discuss guidance for (a) planning and writing a reasonable literature review chapter for a thesis, and (b) planning, conducting and reporting a decent specific review with qualitative or quantitative or mixed synthesis pertaining to a research question and justifying future primary data collection/analysis (hereby saving time and resources compared to browsing the literature with NO plan for the review process and the synthesis method).

And join us afterward for our "Buck-a-Beer"
Faculty, Staff & Student Mixer Event (16:00-18:00)

*Beer will be sold 1$ each
