IPN PhD Seminar Approval Form

The PhD Seminar is a 45 minute public seminar in which the student presents their PhD research. Students should present the background and rationale for their proposed studies, the specific hypotheses tested and the results obtained. Following the student's seminar, the student's Advisory Committee will meet in closed session to determine whether the student has completed sufficient research to proceed to write the thesis.

The student's mentor is not required to attend Ph.D. seminar presentations; the decision to allow the student to proceed with the writing of the thesis rests entirely with the Advisory Committee.
