At the December 14, 2004 meeting of the Academic Committee, the discussion of the credit weight for project courses was shelved and it was agreed that Associate Dean Mendelson would bring a proposal to the committee (Minute 408.4). The proposal is as follows:

Current regulation in the Faculty of Science Calendar:

3.6.2 Project Courses

Students may normally receive no more than 12 credits for individual project or independent study courses toward a B.Sc. degree.

Proposed Regulation:

3.6.2 Project Courses

A student may normally receive no more than 12 credits toward a B.Sc. degree for individual project or independent study courses, unless the courses are part of a program of study in which the student is registered at graduation. In applying this regulation, the credit weight of independent study courses that include a seminar will be reduced by the number of credits attributable to the seminar component.
