Cree Board of Health and Social Services of James Bay / Conseil Cri de la santé et des services sociaux de la Baie James

Website: <http://creehealth.org>

You feel the need for a different way of life? You yearn for fulfilling cultural contacts?

You dream of clean air, wide spaces, and outdoor activities?

The Cree Board of Health and Social Services of James Bay (CBHSSJB) serves nine Québec Cree communities located along the James Bay and around the Chibougamau area.

The CBHSSJB groups the missions of an agency and health institution, as well as social services. It has a mission to provide primary and second line health services and social services.

The Cree inhabit the area since about 5,000 years. You will discover a population of 14,200 natives proud of their values and their language, with a lifestyle different from yours.

This vast and untamed territory is very impressive. The wonders of nature such as the northern lights and the snow as far as the eye can see will fill you with awe. Life at the James Bay is far from being uninteresting.

The East Island Network for English Language Services - REISA

Website: <http://www.reisa.ca>

The East Island Network for English Language Services-REISA, a community organization, works to increase access to health and social services in English for residents of Montreal's east-end, through collaboration with public, private and community stakeholders.

McGill Training and Retention of Health Professionals Project

English-speaking minorities experience a limitation in their access to English health and social services due to prevalent language barriers within the province of Quebec. Given this reality, REISA's role in the McGill Retention Project Initiative is to promote and support the retention of health and social service professionals in the East end of Montreal to ensure that East Island English-speaking minority communities have access to services in their own language.

We seek to create and support partnerships with English-speaking community networks and educational institutions to promote internship opportunities in the East end for students at various levels of study who are pursuing careers in health and social services.
